

The Ontario Teachers' Federation (OTF), in partnership with the Educational Computing Organization of Ontario (ECOO), will be presenting two-day workshops which will provide you with a unique opportunity to work hands-on with Will Richardson to develop your skills for the Web 2.0 world.

Explore the potential that online collaboration brings to you as a professional, as well as the opportunities it can bring to your teaching. Experience networking, podcasting, video streaming, blogging, and wikis. Leave the engaging two-day workshops with the skills and confidence you need to harness the powerful teaching and learning tools that are waiting for you in the Web 2.0 world, and with ideas and practical examples on how you can use and apply the technologies in your classrooms.

Will Richardson

*Will is an internationally respected author, speaker and blogger whose focus is helping educators realize the potential of Web 2.0 technologies in their own personal and professional practice and in their classrooms. He is the author of the best selling Blogs, Wikis Podcasts and Other Powerful Web Tools for Classrooms from Corwin Press and spent 22 years as a public school educator.*

More information and online registration will be available on the OTF Teaching Matters website at www.teachingmatters.on.ca in early December 2008